Plan to Open New Shawneetown Bridge to Traffic On June 1

In less than two weeks from now it will be possible to cross the Ohio river at Shawneetown via the new bridge, according to recent information.

A spokesman at the bridge Friday, May 18, stated plans were to open the bridge to traffic Friday, June 1.

It was stated the final concrete pouring was completed about three weeks ago and that Thursday, May 17, the bridge was given a final inspection and accepted for use.

However, there remains many small items of work to be done and it isn't planned to allow traffic on the bridge until June 1.

At the present time workers are driving their vehicles across the bridge.

Biggest piece of work still to be completed is the painting. The huge steel structure is receiving a complete covering of aluminum paint, all being brushed on by hand. Workmen were almost to the center of the bridge last week. The painting will not be completed by June 1 and this phase of work will continue while the bridge is being used.

Tolls for crossing the bridge will be collected on the Kentucky side, with the toll house constructed just beyond the Kentucky end of the bridge on the fill.

Toll charges will be 75 cents for passenger cars, pickup, panel and light delivery trucks. For heavier vehicles the toll is figured at 50 cents per axle. Two axle trucks are $1, three axle trucks will be charged $1.50 etc.

The toll house is a 12 by 8 foot structure, with basement. The house will be spotlighted and warning lights will be flashing so motorists will know they are approaching the pay station. Also large signs will be erected on the concrete islands at either end of the toll house.

The amount rung up by the collector will flash in lights on a panel on the side of the toll house so the payee will know just how much is being collected. Also, on top of the toll house, facing Kentucky, there is a large lighted board that will flash in coded figures the amount collected. This is for the benefit of a supervisor checking on collections.

The structure is of heavy steel and has been covered with aluminum paint. The toll house and electrical equipment is a product of Teller and Cooper, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y. The house was roofed by the Archie Abney Home Supply and Roofing company of Harrisburg.

Although the bridge will be opened to traffic June 1, there probably will be an official dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony at a later time, with July 4 the possible date, it is said.

Expect Hundreds of Methodists Here for Annual Conference

Bishop Will Preside At Meetings Thursday, Through Sunday

Hundreds of Methodists will converge on Harrisburg for the Southern Illinois conference of the Methodist church, which will be held Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week.

Last-minute preparations were being made to handle the large group of 550 delegates and others who will be here for the sessions.

There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions daily with one of the high points being the Sunday afternoon session, at which young ministers will be ordained and at which the ministerial appointments will be read.

Bishop Charles Brashers, resident bishop of the Chicago area, which includes the Southern Illinois conference, will be here to preside at all the sessions.

Four Districts Represented

Coming here will be representatives of four southern Illinois districts comprising an area in Illinois which extends across the state south from a line north of Vandalia. The districts will be the Carbondale district, of which Dr. W. A. Robinson is the superintendent; the Olney district, of which Dr. Walter Smith is superintendent; the East St. Louis district, of which Dr. Ernest Dycus is the superintendent; and the Harrisburg district, of which Dr. Maurice Winn is superintendent.

Dr. Winn only yesterday received his Doctor of Divinity degree from McKendree college, the honor being bestowed at the college graduation exercises.

Dr. Winn, who came here as district superintendent last year, is a graduate of Creal Springs high school. He received his A. B. degree from Southern Illinois university in 1944, his Master of Theology degree from Iliff School of Theology, Denver, in 1947, and served as pastor of the First Methodist church of Mounds 1947-1951 and of the First Methodist church of East St. Louis 1951-55.

Housing a Problem

The Rev. W. L. Cummins and his Harrisburg Methodist church will be the host to the big meeting.

Rev. Cummins said today that housing and eating will be a big problem for such a large group. Rooms in hotels and motels at Harrisburg, Eldorado and Carrier Mills have been reserved for months for the event and a church committee has been busy securing all the rooms possible in private homes, contacting all who have rooms for rent as well as people in the church.

Several banquets will be held during the conference, all to be served by the Presbyterian church. Rev. Cummins also stated that restaurants have been informed of the influx of visitors and are making arrangements to handle added customers.

Of the 550 delegates coming here, half are laymen and half are ministers.

Hill asks the $30,000 for injuries. Atty. Henry G. Walker of Carmi filed the lawsuit.

Democrats Hit Army-AF Feud, Blame President

Kefauver Demands Eisenhower Settle Defense Bickering

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democrats today blamed President Eisenhower for letting an Army-Air Force feud over defense strategy become a public controversy.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) charged that if Mr. Eisenhower "had been working on the job daily," the feud never would have developed.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, demanded that Mr. Eisenhower settle the "bickering" before it becomes a "national scandal."

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) accused Mr. Eisenhower's defense chief, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, of failing to provide strong leadership in supervising the three military services.

The squabble involved Army claims that the Air Force is trying to hog the lion's share of defense funds.

But two other congressmen considered the feud a healthy development. Chairman George P. Mahon (D-Tex.) of the House Military Appropriations subcommittee said since the "inter-service warfare" has broken into the open "all may have a part" in deciding the outcome.

Wilson Rebukes Both Sides

Sen. Francis E. Case (R-S.D.) commented that the "little flare-up" of inter-service rivalry was a "very healthful thing," providing armed services "from getting sloppy."

The feud erupted into a public controversy over the weekend after there was a "leak" of supposedly secret papers in which Air Force planners accused the Air Force of demanding "more money, more money, more money."

Air Force leaders countered that the Army was attacking the "established national policy" of relying mainly on air-atomic power to deter aggression.

The exchange prompted Wilson to rebuke both sides Saturday for arguing their cases "in the public and in the press on a propaganda basis." He said "this is not the right way to solve our problems."

NEW YORK (UP)—The Air Force has issued a blanket condemnation of the Nike anti-aircraft missile with which the Army has ringed 18 cities regarded as prime targets in the event of an enemy air attack, the New York Times reported today.

Anthony Leverio, writer of the dispatch, said the Air Force condemnation "is so sweeping that it is expected to have serious repercussions in Congress."

Farm Wife is Lashed to Windmill, Left For 10 Hours; Two Face Kidnaping Charges

LEMMON, S. D. (UP)—Authorities planned to bring kidnaping charges today against two wandering New Englanders who lashed a farm wife to a windmill and left her there for 10 hours.

The woman, 56-year-old Mrs. Hugh Galland of near Bison, S. D., was reported in fair condition in a Lemmon hospital, although her tight bonds had cut her circulation.

She was suffering from shock, but was not molested.

Mrs. Galland was discovered roped to the isolated prairie windmill Saturday, 14 hours after Wayne Morgan, 31, Concord, N. H., and David E. Landry, 25, Waltham, Mass., found her alone in her farm home.

Morgan and Landry had been captured a few hours earlier. They were unable to remember immediately where they had left Mrs. Galland and it took a couple of hours and an air-ground search to locate her.

Sheriff Albert Wessel said Morgan and Landry confessed abducting Mrs. Galland at gunpoint because she "kicked up a fuss" when they couldn't pay her for a tankful of gasoline.

The men said they planned to drive Mrs. Galland 100 miles and then abandon her.

But they decided to tie her to the windmill after they had a flat tire and Sheriff Wessel chanced by and helped them fix it.

Mrs. Galland had not been re-

Truman Calls on All Americans to Support Eisenhower Foreign Policy

ROME (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman called on all Americans today to stand behind President Eisenhower on foreign policy regardless of party affiliation.

"I wish everybody on the other side had done the same for me," he said, "and that's right with a government like ours."

He added with a wistful smile, "There are political differences in our country," the ex-President said, "and that's right with a government like ours."

But after the campaigns in which we call each other every name under the sun, we all get together to support the government."

Sees Italian President

Mr. Truman called at the embassy shortly before lunching with Italian President Giovanni Gronchi. He addressed some 200 government workers, speaking informally under a large portrait of George Washington.

He told the embassy workers he believes the "welfare of the whole free world depends on how the career services do their work."

Guests at the lunch with President Gronchi included Editor Hendry Luce, husband of Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce, Charge d'Affaires John D. Jernegan and Stanley Woodward, former U. S. ambassador to Canada.

The Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano reported this afternoon on Mr. Truman's Sunday audience with the Pope. The paper did not say what was discussed.

Recalls Vatican Appointment

The former President, who describes himself as a "good Baptist," was the only American President to nominate a full time ambassador to the Vatican. But his nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark for the post was withdrawn because of the furor that followed.

Mr. Truman talked with the Pope for 30 minutes and then went to worship at St. Paul's American Protestant Episcopal Church.

After the Sunday audience, the Pope ordered the art treasures of the Vatican opened for the private inspection of the Trumans and their party.

The former President, wearing a swallow-tailed morning coat, and Mrs. Truman in black with a black veil, went through the Sistine Chapel where popes are elected and looked at the famed frescoes of Michelangelo.

Democratic Controlled Committee Attacks Eisenhower Power Policies

WASHINGTON (UP)—A new public-versus-private power fight brewed in Congress today as the result of a blistering attack on Eisenhower administration power policies by a Democratic controlled House subcommittee.

A still-secret report prepared by the staff of a House Government Operations subcommittee demands that President Eisenhower fire Interior Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis and Asst. Secretary Fred G. Aandahl, the United Press learned.

The report charges that they favor private utilities in the sale of federal power rather than giving priority to cooperatives and public power groups as required by law.

The report also charges that the "erring" electric cooperatives into accepting unfavorable mergers with private utilities. If the plan is carried out fully, it said, the result will be one "gigantic private monopoly."

The report is based on stormy hearings held by the subcommittee across the country last year. Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, R-Mich., accused the subcommittee of unfair tactics aimed at promoting political issues for the Democrats in the election campaign this year.

The Democratic majority on the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Earl Chudoff (D-Pa.), approved the report, with few changes, last week. The Republican members plan a strong report of their own in protest.

The report accused Davis, Aandahl and former Interior Secretary Douglas McKay of a "brazen attempt" to get around power laws passed by Congress in an effort to favor private power companies.

"The secretarial triumvirate of the Department of Interior apparently follows the edicts of private power companies as those of sort of a supreme legislature with authority to reverse any action of Congress which does not maintain their monopoly in the field of private power," it said.

The report called for a full-scale House-Senate investigation of "organized effort of the private power companies to influence the federal administration, the Congress, the governments of the states and the political life of the nation."

The report said five of the dead were in the car and three other bodies were thrown out by the impact. They were identified as: Millward Martin, 37, Augusta, Minn.; Timothy Martin, 33; Sharlene Martin, 9; David Martin, 13; Donald Martin, 15; Warren Edwards, 46, and Mary Edwards, 45. There were no survivors.

The husband's last known address was 1111 South Land.

She was born March 10, 1882, in Ohio, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Stewart. She had been in poor health since November and bedfast for the past month.

She and Mr. Sharp moved to Harrisburg in 1910 and would have celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary June 9.

Also surviving are the following eight daughters: Mrs. Estel Sullivan, Herrin, Mrs. Thelma Picking, Carrier Mills, Mrs. Freda Potts, Gary, Ind., Mrs. Frances Kerszis, Gary, Ind., Mrs. Alberta Dowdy, Thompsonville, Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, Gary, Ind., Mrs. Louie Catherine Bain, Bankston, Mrs. Mary Ewan, Eldorado; 27 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

She was a member of the Dorrisville Baptist church.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of the Harrisburg funeral home. Burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery.

Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

Hint Mid-June Test Will Be With Missile

Scientists Ready to Work On Tests with Pilotless Weapon

ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY En route to Kwajalein (UP)—The scientists who successfully supervised the first American airdrop of a hydrogen bomb, were reported today preparing an even more "interesting shot" to be touched off about mid-June. It may be a hydrogen bomb warhead attached to a pilotless missile.

A B52 world's fastest intercontinental bomber, sent the hydrogen bomb toward its target over tiny Namu Island in the Bikini Atoll at dawn today and then streaked to safety.

The success of the experiment meant that the United States now has a team of hydrogen bombs and B52s that can destroy any city in the world.

Nevertheless, nuclear scientists were believed already to be at work on an even more powerful partnership—the H-bomb and the pilotless missile that can streak hundreds of miles at many times the speed of sound.

About 10 more tests are scheduled before the series ends in late summer. The United Press was told the "most interesting shot" is scheduled for mid-June. What will it be? Security forbids its disclosure. Perhaps it is an H-bomb already tailored for the big continental-leaping missiles to come.

President's Viewpoint

President Eisenhower has said that an intercontinental missile is useless without an explosive to wreak its destruction, and Rear Adm. B. Hall Hanlon, commander of the task force in the Bikini Atoll, has said the H-bomb can be tailored to the missiles.

Today's airdrop was an awesome answer to Russia's recent, but unproved statement that it already has detonated a hydrogen bomb from an airplane.

The light that shattered the pre-dawn darkness was greater than that of 500 suns. Its mammoth super-hot fireball sent water and coral dust surging into a deadly radio-active cloud that spread 100 miles.

Newsman and civil defense observers who witnessed the explosion from the bridge of the Mt. McKinley 39 land miles away were amazed and appalled by the blast.

What Was Expected

But for the task force personnel who knew the bomb's anticipated power, yield, estimated at 10 million tons of TNT—the spectacle was exactly what they expected to see.

In dropping the bomb from an altitude of 10,000 feet, the United States answered in deeds and not words Russia's recently unsupported claims that it was the first nation to explode a hydrogen bomb from the air.

Even though the spectacular shot at dawn was the most spectacular in the current series of thermonuclear tests, task force authorities hinted the most important test was yet to come.

Can Be Tailored

Rear Adm. B. Hall Hanlon, commander of the task force conducting this year's nuclear tests, has said the H-bomb can be tailored to big missiles.

Proof of the portable H-bomb's incredible power was burned into the memory of observers this morning.

But the United States is not putting all its thermonuclear eggs in one basket. It is building a large family — from small ones for knocking down enemy planes to even bigger ones than the giant exploded at dawn.

Newsman aboard this communications ship witnessed what was apparently a pigny H-bomb explosion 16 days ago at Eniwetok Atoll. It could be delivered easily by light bomber or a medium sized missile.

Yet its power was estimated at equal to more than 30,000 tons of TNT — a firecracker compared to today's monster — but bigger than any weapon used in World War II and about twice as powerful as an A-bomb.

could inspect poultry plants only once every 12 years, and lopped
6,000 tax agents off Internal Revenue at a time when the government needed more than ever to investigate tax evasion.

Taber is one who believes, however, that economy should not begin at home. He has had his son Charles on the government payroll at $632 a month and his brother Silas at $379 a month.
When chairman of the Appropriations committee, he also spent $124,905 annually for 28 clerks—the largest congressional staff in Washington.

Today Taber is no longer chairman. But even so, it's now learned he still enjoys a neat piece of personal patronage. Francis Mentillo gets a salary of $4,707 from the House Appropriations committee for which committee he is supposed to work. However, he is seidom in Washington of late, spends his time in Taber's home town mending Taber's political fences.

Also interesting is the fact that although Taber consistently voted against social security for workers, he voted for pensions for congressmen. If he retires from Congress at the end of 1956, as some of his constituents want him to,
he will collect an annual pension of $12,780—assuming he has made regular retirement contributions.

Completion of high school is very important for many entry jobs—almost necessary for advancement," it said. "Specialized training in or after high school can give you a great advantage over other job seekers."

Getting married?

A successful marriage should begin on a sound financial basis. As your married friends will tell you, it is equally important that it should stay on such a basis.

Of course, you have probably given a lot of thought to the cost of furnishing and maintaining a home . . . and to food and clothing costs. Have you also given thought to insurance protection for your wife?

You will find that Life insurance is a very flexible means to provide such protection and also to help achieve financial security. As your Metropolitan Representative will be glad to explain, there are various types of Life insurance to fit the requirements you may have now and in the future . . . for family protection, for Mortgage coverage and for Retirement funds. You will also want to have Hospitalization and Surgical insurance to help pay medical expenses for you and your wife.

Insurance service, the Metropolitan way, will help you to develop an insurance program tailored to your particular needs. Moreover, your Metropolitan Representative knows that even the most carefully planned programs need constant review and revision to keep pace as your family needs change.

Call your Metropolitan Representative today and let him help you start your marriage on a sound financial basis. Remember . . .

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our darling son, Walter Shewmaker Jr., whose passing was eight years ago today, May 21st:
He meant so much to us in life, that when he passed away, the sun went down, and it seemed the rain would always stay. It was more than we could bear. When we were forced to part, but after all, God made the world, and He knows what is best. And in the wisdom of His ways, He called him home to rest. No one knows the silent heartache only those who have lost can tell. Of the grief that is borne in silence. Of the one we loved so well. Sadly missed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shewmaker. *276-1

Hearing Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today denied a hearing to Emil Reck, Chicagoan serving a 199-year sentence for the 1936 murder of a prominent pediatrician, Dr. Silber C. Peacock.

St. Louis Man Admits Shooting His Estranged Wife in Presence of Children

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sammie Goza, 28, St. Louis, confessed to the fatal shooting of his estranged wife in the presence of her three children. Later, Goza told police, he seriously wounded one of Mrs. Dorothy Goza's woman friends.

Goza said he fired three bullets into the chest and left arm of his wife. He also confessed to shooting Mrs. Liza Hedrick, 29, when she advanced toward him.

Mrs. Hedrick received an emergency operation for three bullet wounds Sunday night and her condition is described as critical.

Three of Mrs. Goza's children by a former marriage — Sharon, 6; Rodney, 5; and 4-year-old Bunny Braden — saw the shooting.

Mrs. Hedrick's two children by a former husband and a neighbor's child were in the kitchen at the time. They saw Goza escape through a rear door.

Goza told police he believed Mrs. Goza had been seeing her former husband. He added that she sometimes addressed him by the name of the former husband in her sleep. "A man can take just so much of that," police quoted him as saying.

Goza's mother said that he frequently behaved strangely since his return from Army service in Korea in 1953. She said he won a Bronze Star for Bravery.

Spurned Man Kills Teen-Age Girl, Suicides

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Rider sat fingering her rosary today and told dazedly how her pretty teen-age daughter was shot to death by a "rather pathetic" marriage license bureau employee whose love the girl had spurned.

"Are you sure she is dead?" Mrs. Rider kept asking police. "Is my girl really gone?"

Diane Rider, 18, a college student who lived with her mother, was shot Sunday by Henry H. Gales, 28, an employee in the Wayne County marriage license bureau, who took his own life with the same .32-caliber revolver a few minutes later.

Mrs. Rider said Gales had asked her daughter to go to the Detroit Tigers baseball game with him. She said the girl refused and that both then went to the home of a neighbor to see one of Diane's friends, Donna Schmitt, 22.

Miss Schmitt told police Gales acted "strangely." She said he pulled papers from his wallet and tore them up, as well as the tickets to the ball game. She said he was asked to leave, and he did, but returned four times. The fourth time, Miss Schmitt left the house, leaving Miss Rider and Gales alone.

She said she was standing in the front yard when she heard four shots. Mrs. Rider came running over, she said, and together they entered the house where they found the two bodies.

Mrs. Rider said her daughter met Gales about a year ago. She said Gales apparently was deeply in love with her daughter but that Diane did not return his affection. She described him as a "rather pathetic man who was kind and gentle."

Alumni Ass'n Lists Choices For U. I. Trustees

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — University of Illinois alumni committee choices of candidates for U. I. trustees were announced over the weekend.

The Republican and Democratic committee recommendations: Republicans: Renomination of Timothy W. Swain, Peoria, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Harold (Red) Grange, and Wayne A. Johnson, Chicago, president of the Illinois Central Railroad; and nomination of Earl M. Hughes, Woodstock farmer and a Commodity Stabilization Service official.

Democrats: Richard J. Nelson, Evanston, Inland Steel Co. official; Don Forsyth, Springfield insurance man; and Joseph B. Campbell, Nashville publisher.

Terms of three board members expire this year: Swain, Johnson, and Herbert B. Megrin, Harvard, who will not seek re-election. Three trustees will be elected for six-year terms in the November general election.

The alumni committees are appointed by the alumni association and their recommendations are not binding on the party conventions, which nominate the candidates.

The Republican convention will be held May 29 at Bloomington; the Democrats meet June 4 at Springfield.

Illinois Woman Drowns When Boat Overturns

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mrs. Helen Coburn, 58, of Maywood, Ill., drowned Sunday when the 16-foot outboard motor boat in which she and her husband were fishing overturned in the surf off Ocean Beach.

She drowned before the eyes of her mother, Mrs. Mildred White, at whose home she and her husband, James L. Coburn, were vacationing.

Coburn, 59, was hoisted to safety on a line lowered by a Coast Guard helicopter after a rubber life raft the helicopter dropped was washed away. Coburn apparently lost his hold on his wife in the rough surf.

Two lifeguards swam about 150 feet from shore to bring in Mrs. Coburn. Attempts to revive her were unsuccessful.

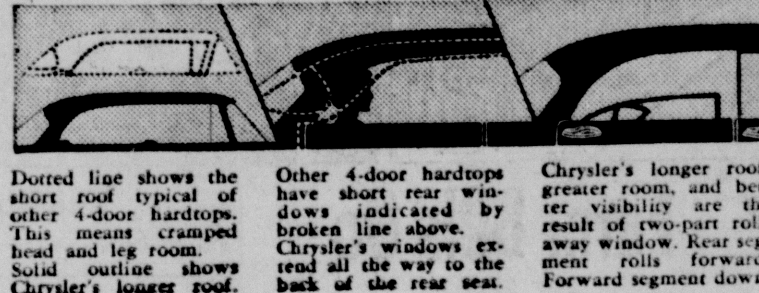

The Coburns were to have returned home from a vacation June 1.

Coburn is superintendent of salesmen for a wholesale liquor firm.

Introduce Royalty Checks Endorsed By Connelly

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The government today introduced 25 royalty checks, cashed by Matthew J. Connelly over a two-year period, from oil property which the government charges was given to the former White House aid by a tax evader's attorney.

But eight other royalty checks, which prosecutors claimed were made out to T. Lamar Caudle, were barred from evidence by Federal Judge Ruben M. Hulen when Caudle's attorney objected there was no proof of endorsement.

The royalty checks were identified by L. S. Hadley, Independence, Kans., secretary-treasurer of the Sinclair Crude Oil Co.

Connelly, appointment secretary to former President Truman, and Caudle are on trial with Harry I. Schwimmer, an attorney, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government by trying to fix the income tax evasion case against Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe broker.

Farm Bills Go To Conferees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today sent differing Senate and House farm bills to a conference committee to work out a compromise.

Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.) said negotiations will begin later today. He told the House he hopes the conferees will be able to reach agreement in time for final congressional action on a compromise bill Tuesday.

President Eisenhower meanwhile took an administrative action designed to make at least a dent in the nation's production of surplus farm commodities.

He issued an order providing that, after 60 days, private farmers who lease federally-owned lands may not use them to grow any crops which are in surplus or under federal price supports.

The White House said up to two million acres of government-owned land will be affected. Federal property now used for growing crops under price supports amount to less than 1 per cent of the nation's total farmland, however.

Spinster Pleads Guilty To Embezzling More Than Million Dollars

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A soft-hearted Sunday school teacher, tears flowing down her cheeks, pleaded guilty today to embezzling more than a million of the three million dollars she was accused of filching from her unsuspecting employers.

Miss Minnie Mangum, a 52-year-old spinster, stood at the table of her defense lawyers, steadied her shaking hands on the table's surface and entered her guilty plea.

The state accepted her guilty plea on all counts and indicated that other pending indictments may not be prosecuted.

Rule Union Shop Legal in Rail Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that the union shop is legal in the railroad industry—even in states which have outlawed the union shop.

It held that the Federal Railway Labor Act, which authorizes union shop agreements, takes precedence over the conflicting "right to work" laws now on the books of 18 states.

The ruling applies only to companies and workers covered by the Railway Labor Act.

Southern Members of House Committee Hit Civil Rights Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern members of the House Judiciary Committee charged today that President Eisenhower's civil rights proposals would create a "Frankenstein" to destroy states' rights.

In a sharply worded minority report, the Southerners also denounced the Supreme Court. They accused the court of overturning "so many unsound decisions" that its rulings cannot be accepted as "settled law."

Wife of Former Treasury Secretary Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John W. Snyder, wife of the former secretary of the Treasury, died Sunday night of a heart attack.

Mrs. Snyder, who had been ill for some time, was stricken at her home here. She was about 60.

Snyder served in many government posts, including Treasury secretary from 1946 to 1953. He is now chairman of the finance committee of the Overland Corp., Toledo, Ohio.

One Killed, Two Hurt When Train Hits Stalled Car

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — One person was killed and two were critically injured today when a freight train smashed into their stalled automobile at a crossing here.

Killed were Mrs. Sara Shapiro, 65, Chicago. Injured were Hyman Perlmutter and his wife, Lillian, Chicago.

The driver of the car, Harry Perlmutter, Springfield, and another passenger, Sam Lieberman, also of Springfield, escaped injury.

Police said Harry Perlmutter was driving Mrs. Shapiro and the Hyman Perlmutters to a train station when his car stalled on the tracks.

General Motors Cuts Production

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. today cut production schedules and employment in most of its divisions and a United Auto Workers local called for immediate government help for the unemployed of the auto industry.

Automotive News, a trade paper, even before the General Motors cutback starting today, said the rate of production for the first two-thirds of May would result in only 478,324 cars being built in the month.

The paper said this would be the lowest monthly output since last September, the model change-over month. It would be 12.7 per cent below April production and 356,000 fewer cars than were produced in the booming May, 1955, market.

Farmer, Disgusted With Parking Meters, Hits 33 with Truck

MARSHALL, Ill. (AP) — A farmer got so disgusted with parking meters he got into his big truck and mowed down 33 of the gadgets bordering the town square.

Ronald Medsker, 30, was arrested at his home south of Martinsville, Ill., after the incident Sunday night.

Police said his only comment was he didn't like parking meters and he regretted he had missed two of them.

Yet in Hospital

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Albert Woolson, a durable 109 years old and the last survivor of the Civil War Union Army, was reported in good condition today at St. Luke's Hospital.

The old soldier was admitted to the hospital Saturday night for one of his periodic bouts with lung congestion. Hospital attendants said he was "up and around," strolling about his room.

Drowns

GRAFTON, Ill. (AP) — Edward Fletcher, 37, St. Louis, drowned in the Mississippi River near here when the speedboat he was riding in capsized.

Illinois State Police reported that three other men in the boat were able to get to shore. They were Leo Pancer, 45, his 18-year-old son, Don, and Oscar Bowen.

HTHS Board Still Seeks Cage Coach

The Harrisburg Township high school board of education has been working hard to secure a top-notch basketball coach for the school but so far has not secured one, Principal Eltis F. Henson announced today.

A number of applications have come in and the board has interviewed several they believed desirable for the post. None of these, however, accepted the post. So now the board has started going over applications and is accepting new ones for the job.

Chicago Area Dominates State Sports Finals

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — Chicago area high school dominated this weekend's prep sports extravaganza.

Bloom Twp., Arlington Heights and Hinsdale won the track, golf and tennis championships respectively Saturday.

Three records were shattered in the interscholastic track meet. Jim Bowers of DeKalb ran the mile in 4:20.7, eclipsing the old mark of 4:23.1, set by Warren Drentzel of LaGrange in 1947. Bloom's swift mile relay team turned in a record shattering performance of 3:22.1 and Mike Smith of Freeport set the third new mark when he split the tape in 1:56.1 in the 880 yard run.

Bloom, of Chicago Heights, chalked up 22 points to outscore Phillips of Chicago, with 18 points. New Trier of Winnetka had 14, defending champion from Blue Island, 11, and East Aurora, 10 1-2 points.

Arlington Heights golfers shot a total of 633 to beat out runner-up Peoria Central, with 646, for the state high school golf crown.

Bill Barnett of West Frankfort captured medalist honors with rounds of 71-79 for a 150 total. Last year's tennis standouts were reversed as Hinsdale took over the crown from defending champion New Trier. Hinsdale compiled 11 points to second-place New Trier's 9.

James Jeffries of Hinsdale won the individual championship by defeating Gaylord Messick of LaGrange, 6-3, 6-2.

The doubles crown was won by Steve Hibben and Dick Williams of New Trier, who scored 6-1, 6-2 victories over Bob Lansford and Tom Brunkow of Champaign.

Benton Trips Local Coal Belt Team, 9-3

Benton defeated Harrisburg, 9-3, in a Coal Belt league baseball game played Sunday at the VFW diamond across from the fairgrounds. Errors led to the downfall of the local team.

Cowger was Harrisburg's leading hitter with three hits out of four trips to the plate.

Harrisburg batteries were Mitchell, Hatcher, Speaks and Cowger. Benton batteries were Baker and Florian.

The locals go to Herrin for a game next Sunday.

DOWNSTATE FISHERMAN'S GUIDE: Regardless of Systems Sometimes You Just Cannot 'Beat the Game'

By PETE BROWN
(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation)

Probably no outdoor sport (or indoor either, for that matter) enjoys as much attention from inventors, recreational sleuths, animal psychologists and assorted guessperts as fishing.

When Izaak Walton (he died in 1683 at the age of 90) was a mere tot, anglers were spending a lot of time contriving ways to "beat the game." The simple attraction of trying to outwit an adversary you can't see and doing it in an environment basically alien to the fisherman is what makes fishing so much fun. Naturally, the sportsman with an edge in the battle is the one who will have more fun because he'll catch more fish.

Founded on the solid bedrock of man's urge for more and bigger fish, a thriving industry is at work building systems and instruments designed to cut down the odds against failure. Equipment is only a part of it.

Back in 1935, John Alden Knight, an outdoor writer, was captivated by a theory held by some market hunters and American Indians. The crude but challenging hypothesis was that the position of the sun and moon had a lot to do with the activity of fish.

Knight took the original theory, added improvements and modifications of his own, and after "four years of testing" introduced to an eager and listening world his "New Solunar Fishing Theory." Four years ago John Alden Knight's copyrighted "Solunar Tables" were appearing in 91 American and Canadian newspapers.

The theory, briefly, holds that freshwater fish tend to feed more readily during solunar periods than at other times. "Solunar Periods"—usually about two hours—are those times when the pull of the sun and the moon would create either high or low tide even where no tide is discernible. Knight said that fish sense the periods by slight changes in buoyancy. He labeled the periods "major" and "minor," which corresponds to high and low tide.

The major periods, said Knight, last about two hours, the minor periods from 45 minutes to an hour and a half.

Although highly popular throughout the world, the theory was never questioned until 1952 when Harold J. Elser, a fisheries biologist with the Maryland Board of Natural Resources, decided to test it. The study was run on Loch Raven, a 2,500 acre bass, crappie and bluegill lake near Baltimore. After six months of checking, Elser's conclusion was: "The test showed that fishing in general was not demonstrably better during solunar periods."

Elser's study, published in 1953, was conducted under the most exacting research conditions. The catches checked were made by normal fishermen who had no idea what was going on. The raw data was boat-rental ticket stubs on which anglers entered their catches. The returned stubs, representing 1,538 trips, were broken down into three groups: major periods, minor periods, and "blank" periods. The people gathering the data were also unaware of the nature of the study.

Evidence Against Barometer

Using the major-minor-blank categories, Elser analyzed the data in every conceivable manner to rule out error and chance in the final result. Success, in Elser's book (as in most fish researchers'), is fish caught per man-hour of fishing.

Elser's paper shows that, if anything, game fish (bass and crappie) are easier to catch during the "blank" periods than during solunar periods. There was a slight increase of perch and carp catches during the solunar periods. Catfish, Elser said, are apparently not affected one way or the other.

Other studies have cast a substantial body of evidence against the "barometric pressure" system of cutting down the odds. Dr. David H. Thompson, formerly with the Illinois Natural History Survey, conducted a 12-year study in Illinois and reported no significant correlation between the quality of fishing and the ups-and-downs of the barometer. E. L. Cooper reported in 1953 that trout on the Pigeon River in Michigan were just as easy (or hard, however you wish to look at it) to catch when the barometer was falling as when it was rising. A survey at Cedar Lake, Ia., was concluded with these bleak observations: "No correlation could be detected between the periods of activity of the fish and barometric changes, wind, sky cover, or solunar periods."

Which brings us to the ads that start out something like "GET THOSE BIG ONES... FISH WILL FLOCK TO YOUR BAIT!" and deal with a mysterious goo more-or-less guaranteed to make you the hit of the fishing season. Elser writes, "I am testing one of the fish attractants (the smelly stuff that is smeared on bait) but so far it shows no ability whatever to attract fish." Although not yet finished, he says the outcome seems fairly clear.

Whether the cause is barometric, atmospheric, lunar or solar, fishing in Southern Illinois was largely unrewarding during the past week. Another patented weekend of high winds muddled things up, and with bass generally on the spawn no unusual outings were recorded. Bass activity ranged from poor to fair. Crappie were still hitting in flashes at Crab Orchard. A lot of small ones were being brought in at Little Grassy. Bluegill fishing remained good at both Lake Murphysboro and Horseshoe Lake and some good strings were also reported at Crab Orchard.

C. A. Frazer of Centralia reported catching a two and a half pound largemouth at Lake Centralia, which might easily be the biggest bass caught there since the lake was rotenoned and re-stocked in 1954.

Two St. Louis fishermen, Jim Tinholden and Al Mikesch, used two and four pound chunks of cut bait to land a total of 59 three-pound catfish at Horseshoe.

John Barnes, assistant director of SIU's department of community development, caught what must be the biggest bass of the year—if not in history—at Lake Murphysboro. His six and a quarter pound beauty was landed on a Spatterbug, a golden-colored surface lure. The fish struck in deep water at about 6:30 a. m.

Sime, Morrow Records Boost Olympic Hopes

By United Press
Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow, two record-busting sophomores, made the United States an advance favorite today to win the 100-meter dash in this year's Olympic games for the fifth straight time.

These two brand-new stars stamped themselves as the top sprinters in the world by equalling two records on Saturday—Sime trying the world 100-yard dash record of 9.3 seconds at Raleigh N. C., and Morrow tying the 100-meter mark of 10.2 seconds at Houston, Tex.

Only record races could have made these two dash men the top tracks of the weekend, for Olympic hopefuls around the world were in fine form as they pressed their training for the big competition. America's Olympic shot put hopes, already high because of the presence of world record holder Parry O'Brien, got still another boost when Bill Nieder of Kansas improved on his U. S. collegiate record. The 220-pound Kansan, who must be rated No. 2 in the world right behind O'Brien, took the spotlight at the Big Seven Conference meet in Manhattan, Kans., by flipping the shot 60 feet, 3 3/4 inches—topping his old college mark of 60 feet, 3 inches.

Jim Bailey of Australia, the University of Oregon student who upset fellow Aussie John Landy in a 3:58.6 mile two weeks ago, won the mile in the Pacific Coast Conference meet at Berkeley, Calif., in a more sedate 4:06.

Another Saturday star was U. S. decathlon champion Rafer Johnson, who won one event, was second in two, and third in one at Berkeley to lead UCLA to an upset team victory.

Amazing Pirates Only Game Out of First Place After Sweeping Two from Braves

By United Press
Strapping Dale Long had the kind of weekend all hitters dream about and because of it, the amazing Pirates were sailing along on Cloud Eight today — only one game out of first place.

Long capped his spectacular one-man slugging show by driving in a total of seven runs against the Braves Sunday to help the Pirates sweep a doubleheader, 6-3 and 5-0, before 32,346 fans, Pittsburgh's largest home crowd in five years.

The 30-year-old, six-foot-four first baseman really treated the crowd to an explosive exhibition. He smashed a three-run homer off Ray Crone in the opener, then drove in four more runs with his ninth homer and a single in the nightcap.

The Pirate first sacker now leads the National League with 29 runs batted in and is second best in hitting with a .398 average.

When all the shooting was over Sunday, the Braves still were in first place by 26 percentage points and only one game separated the first five clubs in the standings.

Brooklyn bounced back into second place by beating Chicago twice by identical 5-3 scores. Duke Snider broke a 3-all tie with a two-run homer off Jim Brosnan in the seventh inning of the first game and Sandy Amoros also snapped a 3-3 tie with a two-run triple off Turk Lown in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

Rookie first baseman Bill White was the standout as the Giants took both ends of a twin-bill from the Cardinals, 2-0 and 5-2. White connected for a homer and a single in the first game as Johnny Antonelli pitched a five-hitter and cracked out three hits while driving in the tie-breaking run in the second game.

Reds Split Two

Eighth inning homers by Del Ennis and Willie Jones powered the Phillies to a 6-4 victory in the nightcap of a doubleheader after the Redlegs battered Robin Roberts for a 5-1 triumph in the first game. Andy Seminick also homered for the Phils while Robinson hit homers for Cincinnati. In the opener, back-to-back homers by Ted Kluszewski and Wally Post highlighted a three-run rally in the eighth that gave Art Fowler his third victory. The loss was Roberts' fourth against the same number of victories.

In the American League, Cleveland swept its first doubleheader of the season by beating Baltimore twice, 6-1 and 5-1. Bob Lemon scattered seven hits to rack up his sixth straight victory in the game as Bob Avila and Vic Wertz each homered. Preston Ward, making his first start for Cleveland after being acquired from Pittsburgh, collected three hits in the opener and singled with the bases full in the nightcap to spark a three-run seventh-inning rally that helped Mike Garcia to his third triumph.

Home runs by Hank Bauer and Andy Carey gave the first-place Yankees a 4-2 decision over the Athletics. Johnny Kucks of the Yanks hurried eight scoreless innings but Bob Grim was called in to nail down the final out. Jack Crimian suffered the loss.

The Red Sox took two games from the White Sox, 12-5 and 2-1, with Jackie Jensen homering in each contest. Jensen's second homer of the day brought Ike DeLoach his first victory. Mickey Vernon also homered for Boston. Jensen drove in three runs in the first game while catcher Pete Dady drove in five runs with a grand-slam homer and a double.

Detroit defeated Washington twice, 4-2 and 7-1, with Paul Foytack winning the first game and reliever Steve Gromek the nightcap. Bill Tuttle hit a grand-slam homer in the second game and Bob Kennedy a three-run homer. The Tigers won the opener with a three-run rally in the sixth on three singles and Red Wilson's triple.

LINCOLN

People who know fine cars are changing to Lincoln

More fine car buyers are changing to Lincoln this year than ever before in Lincoln's entire history—because they recognize that this longest, lowest, most powerful Lincoln of all time is unmistakably... the finest in the fine car field.

Naturally, most of these people are turning to Lincoln because of its fresh, trend-setting new styling. But after owning Lincoln, they praise this car's other fine qualities.

They tell us—time and time again—about Lincoln's exceptional handling ease. They're surprised that such a big, roomy car can be so effortless to drive—and that wives actually prefer this Lincoln over the family's smaller car.

They tell us about Lincoln's outstanding performance, too—in dozens of ways. Those who have never experienced Turbo-Drive are astonished to find that an automatic transmission can be so smooth... and those who take long trips say that this Lincoln makes the ride seem so much shorter—and so wonderfully free of fatigue.

And they tell us about roadability. They like the way Lincoln rides so firmly through a curve—and the freedom of taking any road they choose... instead of avoiding the bad ones.

If you've been thinking this is your kind of fine car, stop in and see us. We'll put a new Lincoln at your disposal any time you say.

The Angry Hills

By Leon M. Uris

© 1955 by Leon M. Uris. Used by arrangement

The Arkadia was neither fast nor trim. She was an outsized mud scow and Mike wondered if she was seaworthy.

The cabin held four bunks and a galley. Mike stretched out and could see up the ladder topside.

Mike began to feel a certain security. So far, Julius Chesney had delivered. Somehow, Chesney knew his true identity and he knew of the Stergiou list. Perhaps he was overdramatizing his love of drachmas, for Mike knew that his capture by the Germans would have brought Chesney ten times the passage money. Mike also felt an instinctive trust in the silent skipper, Antonis.

At the dock gates of Piraeus there had not been so much as a raised eyebrow from the guards when Mike had passed through with Antonis. Mike credited Julius Chesney with knowing his business.

In a half hour, Antonis returned to the boat with two men and a girl.

In the cabin, a bull of a man, an Australian named Ben Masterton, introduced himself. The other man was a tall-faced lad of about 20, a Palestinian named Yichiel. At Yichiel's side stood a frightened girl, his wife, Elpis, who said she was going to join the free Greek forces in Egypt.

Mike was going to protest to Antonis about the extra passage money. He had been bilked, but he decided to do nothing. He was thankful he'd have someone other than Antonis to talk to during the voyage.

The Greek police went through the motions of an inspection, stamped the clearance papers and the Arkadia chugged away from the dock. Chesney had apparently oiled their palms well. Mike became uneasy about the slickness of the operation. It just couldn't be this easy, he thought.

The sea air was chilly. Young Yichiel and his bride, went to the cabin and huddled close.

The Arkadia cleared the harbor area. Antonis stopped the engine and dropped anchor. "We stay till dawn," German orders. British submarines. If we move, a patrol boat will stop us."

Yichiel and Elpis slept locked in each other's arms in the cabin below. Antonis stood at the rail, looking from water to sky.

Ben Masterton sat aft on the deck near Mike, his back against the rail.

The Australian bull fancied himself a concert singer. He began to sing softly. He sang his way through all of the old numbers of the baritone repertoire with most of the time-worn hammed up gestures of a baritone. His left hand caressed his beard and his right arm swept the air.

Mike liked Masterton. Earlier the Australian had told him of his four previous attempts to escape.

"Hey, Linden," Masterton whispered, sliding close to Mike.

"Yes?"

"Look, I don't make it a habit of drinkin' with New Zealanders, but I like the cut of you," Ben pulled a bottle from his jacket.

The level of the bottle moved downward quickly.

Ben scratched his head, looked at the empty bottle and flipped it over the rail. "I shoulda knowed better" to drink with a Kiwi.

Suddenly Antonis took his foot from the rail and stood tense, as if listening. Mike poked Ben in the ribs and they both stared hard.

The distant sound of a motor reached their ears.

Mike and Ben stumbled to their feet and went fore beside Antonis.

"Let's get moving," Masterton said.

"Hold still," Antonis ordered. "They may turn away."

Mike felt his guts turn over. A minute passed, and the motor seemed to fade away. Suddenly it became louder and louder.

"I say let's get underway!" Masterton roared with the sweat pouring down his face.

The boat was coming close now.

They could see its outline about 400 yards to the starboard side. Yichiel and Elpis scrambled topside, bug-eyed in terror. The girl buried her head in the boy's chest.

A siren shrieked.

A flash of light streaked across the water. It settled on the Arkadia and caught the five of them in its beam. The motor roared in louder.

"Arkadia!" a voice boomed in the darkness. "Stand by to be boarded!"

A semicircle of German soldiers at fixed bayonets waited on the dock as the patrol boat eased in. Mike was stupefied with fear. A wave of nausea swept through him as he set foot on the pier. He closed his eyes dizzily. Ben's strong hand gripped his shoulder. A caged truck drove up. The five were thrown in.

A convoy of armed cars escorted the truck. Sirens cleared a path, and the convoy sped from the docks onto the highway toward Athens.

Fool—fool! Madness to do business with Julius Chesney!

Elpis sobbed in the arms of her tall-faced Palestinian, Yichiel. But Antonis showed no anxiety. He puffed his pipe complacently and stared through the barred door at the rear of the truck.

The convoy arrived at the outskirts of Athens.

"Where will that take us?" Mike whispered hoarsely.

"Averof Prison," Ben said. "Get a hold on yourself, matey, they're all bluff."

The five captives were taken to a room with walls and floors of stone. Arrayed about them were two dozen brown-shirted Nazis armed with pistols and clubs.

A rash of small plane crashes killed a "powderpuff derby" racer and four other persons Sunday and Sunday night.

The "powderpuff derby" victim was Marjorie Miller of Reynoldsburg, Ohio, whose two-engine Beechcraft Bonanza overshot a runway and tumbled over a cliff near Havana, Nebr., Sunday night.

The other crash victims were two Idaho Civil Air Patrol members, a Marine jet pilot, and an airman stationed in Alabama.

Two brothers-in-law, members of the Civil Air Patrol, were killed north of Logan, Utah, when their single engine biplane came in at hilltop level, went into a spin, and nosed into the ground. The victims were Wayne Bevis, 23, and Wayne Gregson, 25, both of Preston, Idaho.

Near Denver, Colo., Marine Reserve pilot Maj. Robert W. Hamilton, 34, Denver, died when his F9F Cougar jet fighter crashed and burned on the Lowry Air Force bombing range.

The fifth victim was Airman Lance Muncy, 23, of Dallas, Tex., whose light plane plunged into the Gulf of Mexico near Mobile, Ala., seconds after it took off from the Fort Morgan airport. A companion was injured.

At Minneapolis, Minn., Jim Wilson, 23, and Jean Methven, 24, were seriously injured when their private plane crashed in a suburb.
